

Ea 3. Cre ta gleashagh?

Vershion s'doillee

Va three deiney arganey mysh mergey va bennalt sy gheay.

“She yn mergey ta gleashagh,” dooyrt yn chield er.

“Cha nee, she yn gheay ta dy firrinagh gleashagh,” as yn nah er.

“Nagh re yn jees oc ta gleashagh?” vrie yn trass er jeu lesh pooar.

Cheayll mainshter Zen, va shooyl shaghey, nyn resooney as hug eh sthap daue.

“Cha nee edyr yn gheay ny'n mergey ta gleashagh, woieaghyn. She yn aigney ta gleashagh.”

No 3. What's moving?

More difficult version

Three men were arguing about a banner that was flapping in the wind.

“It’s the banner that’s moving,” said the first one.

“No, it’s the wind that’s really moving,” said the second one.

“Aren’t they both moving?” the third one demanded.

A Zen master, who was walking past, heard their debate and he interrupted them.

“It’s neither the wind nor the banner that’s moving, boys. It’s the MIND that’s moving.”