S'mie lhiam shen: Impersonal copular constructions in Classical Manx

Max W. Wheeler, Ramsey, January 2016

This article continues the series in which I seek to expound the grammatical information to be found in Cregeen’s Dictionary of the Manks Language (1835). Previous articles have focused on inflectional morphology, but this one looks at a characteristic construction whose general pattern (see the example in the title) is:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Copula verb</th>
<th>Adjective or Noun (predicate)</th>
<th>Preposition and its complement</th>
<th>Grammatical Subject NP or VP</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>s’</td>
<td>mie</td>
<td>lhiam</td>
<td>shen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>is</td>
<td>good</td>
<td>with-me</td>
<td>that</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

‘I like that’

I have included also a couple of unusual constructions that do not quite match this model: s’lesh ‘owns’ (without adjectival or nominal predicate), and strooys ‘it seems to me’.

Cregeen does not treat the impersonal copular construction thoroughly or comprehensively, and indeed some of what he says about examples of the pattern is unclear or misleading. Here I cite what is in Cregeen, comment on it, and include a range of examples from the Manx Bible (canonical books 1819), plus apocryphal books (Wisdom and Ecclesiasticus, 1773), and Five stories from the Old Testament Apocrypha in Manx Gaelic from Manx Museum Ms.1236A in the William Sayle Collection, transcribed and published by George Broderick for Yn Çheshaght Ghailckagh in 1979.

In this construction, illustrated in the table above, the copula verb has two tenses: present: independent - s’ or sh-, dependent - initial consonant subject to Nasalization 3 or with n- or nh- (/n/) before a vowel, (just as are future tense verbs), and past: by or b’. Occasionally we find my instead of s’ or by. The formal predicate follows, either a noun, such as egin ‘force’, or an adjective, such as mooar ‘great’. Certain items, apparently only those with radical f-, are lenited after s’, thus s’+ feer ‘true’→ sheer, s’+ feeagh ‘valuable, worth’ → sheeagh; other consonants are not affected, such as mie ‘good’ and mooar ‘great’. Lenition is found after by, thus, from doillee ‘difficult’ we have by ghoillee ‘it was difficult’. Only two prepositions are generally to be found in the third slot: da ‘to, for’, and lesh ‘with, by’. The grammatical subject follows the Prepositional Phrase: it may be a lexical noun phrase, or a sentential complement, most often a non-finite one.

Under each heading I copy out first Cregeen’s information,²

1. AILL ‘pleasure’

   “sailly[m], p. I please; -s, id. em.
   cha naill or naille, v. not wish; -agh; -in; -ins; -ym; -yms. 94. S my saillish or sallish, p. if he please; -in, id. em.
   my saillie, p. if she please; -ish, id. em.
   my saillin, p. if we please; -yn, id. em.
   my sailt, p. if thou please, if it please thee.

¹ And these items likewise have dependent forms without f-: neeagh, etc.
my silliu, p. p. if you please; -ish, id. em.
cha naillish, p. he wishes not, or his will is not for; -in, id. em.
cha naillhien, p. we would not wish, &c. S cha naailiu. See nilliu. S naillt, p. wouldst thou wish or be pleased to be so? -s, id. em. S nilllu, p. will ye or you be pleased; -ish, id. em. S baill, v. would wish, or rather be, pleased, or willing.
baillish, he would, &c.
baillishin, he, &c.; id. em.
bailee, she would, &c.
baileeish, she would or will, &, id. em.
baillue, they would, &c., be baillleuish, they would or will be, &, id. em bailllym, I would, &c.
bailllyms, I would; id. em. 161.
baillmayd, we would wish, or rather, be pleased or willing. [The presence of -mayd here is anomalous, treating baill as a verb. Even so -mayd is expected in a future tense, not a past one.]
baillhien, we, &c.
baillhienyn, we, &c.; id. em.
bailt, v. thou wouldst be pleased, wish, or be willing of; -s, id. em.
bailliu, you or ye would, &c.
bailloo. See bailliu.
bailleuish, you or ye; id. em.
my billiu, v. if you please or choose.
my billiush, v. if you please, &c., em.
cre-saillym, <adv.> [pro.] what I please; -s, id.
cre-salt, <adv.> [pro.] what thou pleasest; -s, id.
cre-silliu, <adv.> [pro.] what you please or what is your pleasure.”

In this example the preposition lesh appears in contracted forms, attached to the root -aill-, thus *s’aill lhiam → saillym. The construction is often used when the object of the preposition lesh is a personal pronoun, but examples (1)-(10) below have lexical noun phrases as prepositional object. The grammatical subject of the construction may be a noun phrase, as in (11)-(16). Or the grammatical subject of -aill- may be sentential; in all the examples the sentential subject is non-finite. When the subject of the included sentence is the same as the prepositional object of lesh, it is not explicit; the verb appears either in the gerund, or with y and lenition in the ‘included object’ construction’ (31)-(32). In (24)-(30) the verb phrase is understood, in a relative clause/indirect question. When in the sentential element the subject is distinct from the objet of lesh, we generally get: -aill- [Subject dy Verbal noun (lenited)...], but in (38) we see just: -aill- [mish goll] ‘wish me to go’.

AILL

[3Subj Gerund lit. ‘Do you wish me to go to get for you...?’]

2. CAIR da
‘ought to’, ‘is right for X to’
This construction is not mentioned by Cregeen.

(1) Eisht dansoor Peddyr as ny ostyllyn elley, gra, S’caîr dooin ve ny s’biallee da Jee na da deiney.
Then Peter and the other apostles answered and said, We ought to obey God rather than men.

(2) Eisht dooyrt Paul, Ta mee my hassoo ec stoyl-briwnys Cesar, raad s’caïr dou ve er my vriwnys
Then said Paul, I stand at Caesar's judgment seat, where I ought to be judged.

3. COOIDSAVE ~ GOOIDSAVE lesh “s’gooidsave, a. more or most vouchsafe. [?] G s’cooidsave, v. may vouchsafe. See sgooid.
my chooidsave, v. if vouchsafe. C”

Or ‘be pleasing to’. As the past tense is by chooidsave, the spelling s’cooidsave makes more sense, though s’gooidsave is much more frequent in the Bible. The form gooidsave occurs in dependent contexts. NB also optative dy gooidsave ‘may it please’. When the grammatical subject of cooidsave is a sentential complement, and the subject of the sentential complement is the same as the prepositional object of lesh, the construction differs from that seen with AILL. Whereas with AILL we have [AILL, lesh+Object, Gerund, etc.] here we have [COOIDSAVE, lesh+Object, dy Verbal Noun etc.] (4)-(12), except in (13a), where the VP is just ve graysoil, and (13b), (14) and (15) where we have an ‘included object’ construction with y: myghin y hoilshagh ey ‘to show mercy’, mish y livrey ‘to deliver me’, eh y hoilshagh ey ‘to reveal him’. Here we may also find a finite clause as sentential subject of COOIDSAVE (16)-(17), of which there was only one example with AILL (1. (2))

COOIDSAVE

(1) clynnee eh nyn goraa, my s’cooidsave lesh he will hear our voice, if it please him.
(2) my s’cooidsave lesh y ree it if it seem good to the king
(3) As ta mee gra dy gooidsave lhiue, as t’ad dy Verbal Noun etc. It hath pleased them verily; and their dy Verbal Noun etc.
(4) son dy scooidsave lesh y Chiarn dy yannoo because it hath pleased the Lord to shiu e phobble make you his people.
(5) Cre vees jeant rish y dooinney, What shall be done unto the man whom s’gooidsave lesh y ree dy hroggal gys y and the king delighteth to honour? stayd smoo dy ard-ooshley?
(6) Oh dy beagh my accan aym! as dy jinnagh Oh that I might have my request; and Jee cur dou my vian! Eer dy gooidsave lesh Jee dy my stroie that God would grant me the thing that I long for, Even that it would please God to destroy me
(7) Agh tra by-chooidsave lesh Jee, ren mish y But when it pleased God, who reih veih brein my vayrey, as deie eh orrym liorish e ghrayse, Dy hoilshagh ey e Vac aynym’s separated me from my mother's womb, and called me by his grace, To reveal his Son in me
(8) Shen-y-fa ta shin myrgeddin dy kinjagh Wherefore also we pray always for you, goaill padjer er nyn son eu, dy gooidsave that our God would count you worthy lesh y Jee ain dy choontey shiu feeu jeh’n of this calling eam shoh.

(10) Shen-y-fa nish, dy gooidsave lhiue, dy vannaghey thie dy harvaant Therefore now let it please thee to bless the house of thy servant
(11) shoh cronk Yee, ayn s’gooidsave lesh dy chummal this is God's hill, in the which it pleaseth him to dwell:
(12) Son s’gooidsave lhiat dy jeh Macedonia as Achai da yano nhag anagh For it hath pleased them of Macedonia and Acha to make a certain and Achai to make a certain contribution
(13) a. as beem’s graysoil dauesyn s’gooidsave lhiam ve graysoil, and [I] will be gracious to whom I will b. as nee’m myghin y hoilshagh ey dauesyn be gracious, s’gooidsave lhiam myghin y hoilshagh ey and will shew mercy on whom I will (14) lhig da my viyors ve dy mooar soit jeh shew mercy. liorish y Chiarn, as dy gooidsave lesh mish y livrey ass dy chooilley ghaye so let my life be much set by in the eyes of the Lord, and let him deliver me out of all tribulation
(15) eshyn da s’gooidsave lesh yn Mac eh y he to whomsoever the Son will reveal hoilshagh ey.
(16) foddee dy gooidsave lesh Jee dy vod oo gwee mollagt orroo er my hon veih shen peradventure it will please God thou mayest curse me them from thence.
For it pleased the Father that in him should all fulness dwell;

There are no examples of this construction in the Manx Bible.

while he doth say in his heart, Tush, thou God carest not for it?

Cregeen’s gloss ‘because of difficulty or hardness’ is, I think, off the mark, inasmuch as he misses the fact that by here is just the past tense of the copula, while doillee, is, naturally, an adjective. From the few Biblical examples it is unclear whether there is any difference between s’doollee da and s’doollee lesh.

it is hard for thee to kick against the pricks

it is hard for thee to kick against the pricks.

From that time forth began Jesus to shew unto his disciples, how that he must go unto Jerusalem.”
Lit. ‘be necessary to’, ‘be obligatory to’. The sentential subject of EGIN is non-finite, with gerund (1)-(8), or with Direct Object+y+Verbal Noun, in the ‘included object’ construction (9)-(13). In (14) we see a gerund construction with a subject distinct from the prepositional object of da.

EGIN

(1) son eisht beign diu dy jarroo goll ass y theihll

(2) Dy beign dou goll dy baase mayr, cha

    the latter unlikely.

8. ERREE da

“erree, a. latter end of, become of, end of.
s’erree, a. how end, become of, meaneth; Acts, ii. 12: As v’ad ooilley fo atchim as imnea, gra yn derrey yeh rish y jeh elley, Cre s’erree da shoh? And they were all amazed, and were in doubt, saying one to another, What meaneth this?;
befallen, how will the end be; Deu. xxi. 28: As d’astyr y Chiarn ad ass y cheer oc ayns e arg, as ayns e chorrree, as ayns e yymmoose vooar, as hilg eh magh ad gys cheer elley, myr s’erree daue jiu. And the Lord rooted them out of their land in anger, and in wrath, and in great indignation, and cast them into another land, as it is this day. E”

Though Cregeen labels erree an adjective, it might as well, or better, be seen as a noun ‘outcome’, ‘consequence’, etc.

Eshyn er-y-fa shen ta mee treishteil dy chur hiuish dy gerrit, cha leah as nee’m fakin cre s’erree dou

FEEAGH see s.v. FEEU

9. FEER da

“sheer [or sheeir], d. true, sure, or about to; as, sheer loayrt er nyn son (about or sure to speak for us). Litany.

beeir, adv. as, my beeir da (if what he says be true or to be heeded); the preterit or past tense of sheeer.”

Let us condemn him with a shameful death: for by his own saying he shall be respected.

Son aynsyn ta shin bio, as bioyr, as baghey; myr sheer da paart jeh ny hardoonee eu hene ta gra, Son ta shinyn neesht jeh’n cluight echeysyn

For in him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring.

10. FEEU da

“sheeu, s. is worth, worthy.
cha n’eeu, a. not worth, worthless; <Job, xviii. 12> [Cregeen’s citation belongs to:
neeu, a. reduced to want, undone; Job, xviii. 12: Nee’n niart echey goll neeu, as bee toyrt-mow chion ec e lihattee. His strength shall be hungerbitten, and destruction shall be ready at his side.]. F becau, (from by-fieau) worth, would be worth; syn. with beeagh.”

as cre sheeu dooys ve bio? and why should I live? [Lit. ‘what is it worth to me to be alive?’]

11. FEEAGH da, (one example of lesh)

“s’feceagh, a. of how much value or worth, comp. and sup. F sheeagh, a. is worth; in value.
cha neeagh, s. not worth, good for nothing. See also cha neeu. This word is written nieeagh (would wash), Jer. xiii. 10: Bee yn pobble mee-chauee shoh, ta gobbal dy eaishtagh rish my ghoan, ta gimmeaagh aysn roonid nyn gree hene, as geiyrt er jeeghyn elley dy hirveish ad, as dy chur ooashley daue, bee ad eer myr y cryss shoh, nagh nieeagh veg. This evil people, which refuse to hear my words, which walk in the imagination of their heart, and walk after other gods, to serve them, and to worship them, shall even be as this girdle, which is good for nothing. F becaagh, v. would be worth.” [or ‘was worth’] Sheeu and sheeagh seem to be the same in meaning, though sheeagh is much more widely attested. The first group of examples below (1)-(9) illustrates sheeagh with no complement, that is, as ‘is worth’, not specifying to whom. The last example (14) is the sole one with sheeagh lesh.

FEEAGH

| (1) | son wheesh dy argid as sheeagh eh ver eh dou eh | for as much money as it is worth he shall give it me |
| (2) | sheeagh y magher kiare cheead shekel dy argid | the land is worth four hundred shekels of silver |
| (3) | ver eh yn wheiggo ayrn jeh ny sheeagh eh lesh | he shall add thereto the fifth part thereof [lit. ‘he shall bring the fifth part of what it is worth’] |
| (4) | agh nish sheeagh uss jeth thousaneyn j’inyh: | but now thou art worth ten thousand of us |
| (5) | verym dhyt ny sheeagh eh ayns argid | I will give thee the worth of it in money |
| (6) | Ta ben sheeoil as dooie gioot veih’n Chiarn: as s'mooar sheeagh yn aigney bwaagh-beasagh! | A silent and loving woman is a gift of the Lord; and there is nothing so much worth as a mind well instructed. |
| (7) | cre sheeagh e niee? | what availeth his washing? |
| (8) | As ghow eh crown y ree oc jeh e chione, (beeaugh talent dy airh) | And he took their king's crown from off his head, the weight whereof was a talent of gold |
| (9) | as cur-my-ner, va’n cryss loau, cha beeaugh eh veg | and, behold, the girdle was marred, it was profitable for nothing |
| (10) | cre sheeagh dou yn eiraght shoh? | what profit shall this birthright do to me? |
| (11) | cre sheeagh dou my viyoy? | what good shall my life do me? |
| (12) | Cre sheeagh eh, my vraaraghyn, da dooinney dy ghra dy vel credjue echey, as nagh vel obbraghyn echey | What doth it profit, my brethren, though a man say he hath faith, and have not works? [lit. ‘what is it worth... to a man to say that he has faith...’?] |
| (13) | Cre sheeagh berchys da’n dooinney nagh lhig e chree da ymmyd y yannoo jeh; | Riches are not comely for a niggard [lit. ‘of what value is wealth to a man whose heart does not let him make use of it’?] |
| (14) | As cha beeaugh lesh e laueyn y choyrt er Mordecai ny-lomarcan | And he thought scorn to lay hands on Mordecai alone |

12. IONE da

“shione, v. do or doth know.
cha nhione or nione, v. know not. Prov. Share yn olk shione dooin, na yn olk nagh nhione dooin. [Better the evil that we know than the evil which we know not.] S bione, v. knew, did know, the past tense of shione.”

It is conceivable that the root of IONE is the same as yioin or yoin ‘knowing, knowledge’, mentioned below, which occurs in a different construction, but is included here in casethere may be a more than superficial connexion. The grammatical subject of IONE is often a noun phrase, as in (1)-(12) below; the knowledge may be carnal, as in (13). Or the grammatical subject is an indirect question (14)-(17).

I believe Cregeen mixes up two unrelated (or only distantly related) words here. One is yioyn, used in the expression foddey ’sy yioyn ‘far off, far away, in the distance’; it seems doubtful that this has anything to do with ‘knowledge’ or ‘purpose’. The other word is yoïn or yoïn, which is used in the expression jeh+Possessive+yoïn ‘with (one’s) knowledge, consciously, deliberately; wilfully’. The use of yoïn in Acts, xxvii. 13 cited above by Cregeen seems a bit different; sheiltyn dy row oc nish nyn yoïn ‘supposing that they had obtained their purpose’, but fits if the focal sense of yoïn is ‘purpose’, so jeh e yoïn is ‘on purpose, purposely’. The examples are all of e yoïn ‘his purpose’ or nyn yoïn ‘their purpose’ where mutation is expected. The base could be *jioin or *gioin.

   [s’leayr], v. seeing, perceiving. See Remarks 167 and 168. [i.e. dependent leayr, past tense bleayr]

Thus s’leayr da (or lesh) = ‘is visible to’. One example only of lesh (8).

15. LESH

“s’[je]sh or s’lesh, v. belonging to, owning, owneth, &c. L b[’]lesh or by-lesh, s. m. ownership.
  by-lesh, adv. belonging to, owner or owners of.
  by-lesh, his, belonging to him; -yn, id. em; Obadiah, 14: Chamoo lhisagh oo v’er hassoo ’syn aa-gherrit, dy yiarey jeh adsyn by leshyn ren scapail; chamoo lhisagh oo v’er livrey seose adsyn by-leslyn va er-mayrn ’sy laa seaghnagh Neither shouldest thou have stood in the crossway, to cut off those of his that did escape; neither shouldest thou have delivered up those of his that did remain in the day of distress.
  b[’]leshin, v. belonging to him.
  by-lhieu, adv. belonging to them.”

This construction differs from the remainder in this article in that the copula directly governs the preposition lesh. The item possessed is the subject of the copula s’, and the possessor is the object of lesh. In the Bible there are only 3rd person examples, singular and plural. We find sometimes my instead of s’ (9)-(10).

16. LHIASS da

“s’liass, v. need, needeth, needs, &c. L sliass, adv. needs.
liass, adv. needs; 2 Tim. ii. 15: Bee uss inmeagh dy phrowal oo hene firrinagh gys Jee, obbree Nagh liass Nearer ‘ghoaill, rheyyn dy kiart yng goo dy yrnickys. Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth.
liass, adv. See liiass. S liias dou, adv. need I[?]”.

The grammatical subject seems always to be sentential, with a gerund (1)-(7), or object+y+verbal noun (‘included object’ construction) (8). That is, the construction is not used for needing a thing, which is e.g. ta feme aym er red ennagh ‘I need something’.

LHIASS

(1) My ta Jee er lhie e laue orrym, crea s’liass diuish?

Why do ye persecute me as God? [lit. ‘if God has laid his hand on me, why need you (do so)?’]

(2) As dooyrt y ree rish Absalom, Cha liias, my vac, ny lhig dooin ooitley goll nish

(4) Cha liias daue goll roue.

They need not depart.

(5) cha liias dou scrieu hiu

it is superfluous for me to write to you

(6) Agh cha liias dou boggyssagh veg sodjey

It is not expedient for me doubtless to glory [lit. ‘it is not necessary for me to boast any further’]

(8) Cha liias da dooinney erbee gra, Cre ta shoh?

A man need not to say, What is this?

(9) Liass dooin ny-sodjey shin hene y voylley?

Do we begin again to commend ourselves? [lit. ‘do we need to praise ourselves any further?’]
17. LHIG

“‘shig, v. and let or permit. L cha b[“]lhig, v. 167. will not let or permit.
cha b[“]lhigagh, v. would, &c. not let, &c.”

There are no Bible examples of the copular construction Cregeen appears to be alluding to, though it looks as if he may be confusing two possible constructions: cha lhig ‘will not let’, in which lhig is the dependent future of the regular verb lhiggey ‘allow, let’ and cha b’lhigagh, a copular construction, which would mean ‘was not permitted, would not be permitted’. The verbal cha lhig, cha lhigagh, etc. is widely attested in the Bible.

18. LHOYS da

s’loys
“cha lhoys, v. dare not. <S> loys dhyt, p. darest thou.
b’loys, v. durst, darest.
by-loys, v. 167. durst or darest. See b’loys.
my v[“]loys, v. if darest or durst. B”

Cregeen omits to mention the positive present tense form of this construction, though it is well attested.

LHOYS

(1) heeyn eh eh-hene myr lion; as myr shenn lion; quoi s’loys y ghooostey eh?
he couched as a lion, and as an old lion; who shall rouse him up? [lit. ‘Who dares rouse him?’], though one might expect s’loys da, as in the next example.]

(2) Quoi s’loys da dorryssyn e veela y osley?
Who can open the doors of his face? [lit. ‘Who dares open the doors of his lip?’]

(3) Kys s’loys dou arg Yee ‘ghoaill thie hym?
How shall I bring the ark of God home to me? [lit. ‘How dare I bring the ark...?’]

(4) Lhie dty laue er my s’loys dhyt
Lay thine hand upon him [lit. ‘Lay thy hand on him if thou darest’.]

(5) as quoi s’loys da m’y ghreinnaghey?
and who will appoint me the time? [lit. ‘Who dares incite me?’]

(6) ayns cre-erbee s’loys da dooinney erbee ve dunnal... s’loys dooys ve dunnal myrgeddin.
whereinsoever any is bold ... I am bold also.

(7) Kys by-lhoys da dellal rish y chuyr ain, myr rish streebagh?
Should he deal with our sister as with an harlot?

(8) As cha by-lhoys da fockle d’ansoor y choyrt da Abner, son v’eh ayns aggle roish
And he could not answer Abner a word again, because he feared him. [lit. ‘he dared not give a word of answer to Abner...’]

(9) haink daa ghoooinney va drogh-sperrydyyn ayndoo magh ny whail, veih mastey ny hoiaghyn, as cha keoi shen v’ad, nagh by-lhoys da dooinney erbee goaill yn raad shen there met him two possessed with devils, coming out of the tombs, exceeding fierce, so that no man might pass by that way

(10) Agh cha hoig ad yn raad shen, as cha by-lhoys daue fenaghtyn jeh
But they understood not that saying, and were afraid to ask him
LHOYS

(11) Lhoys da fer erbee eu, as cooish echey noi fer elley, goll gys y Leigh fenish y vooinjer neuchairagh, as cha nee fenish ny nooghy?
Dare any of you, having a matter against another, go to law before the unjust, and not before the saints?

(12) *Son cha Lhoys dooin jannoo shin hene jeh’n earrro ocstyn*
For we dare not make ourselves of the number

(13) As huitt aggle as creau orrroo, myr shen nagh row dooinney erbee by-loys da uirraght ayns shilley da e naboo
And fear and trembling fell upon them, so that there was no man that durst abide in the sight of his neighbour

(14) son raad t’ou dty yoarree cha by-loys dhyt fosley dty vyeeal.
for where thou art a stranger, thou darest not open thy mouth [NB by-loys with present sense here.]

(15) cha by-loys da’n derrey yeh e heaghyn y hoilshaghey da’n jeh elley yet durst not one shew another his grief.

(16) cha by-loys dou my smooinaghtyn y hoilshaghey.
[I] durst not shew you mine opinion

(17) myr shen nagh by-loys da beisht erbee shasso roish
so that no beasts might stand before him,

19. LIOOAR da

“[s’]liooar or s’[ ]liooar, adv. hardly enough, enough, what sufficeth; John, xiv. 8: Dooyrt Philip rish, Hiarn, jeeagh dooin yn Ayr, as s’liooar dooin eh. Philip saith unto him, Lord, shew us the Father, and it sufficeth us.*

by-liooar or by[-]liooar, *adv. I[67], would be enough. See also bloiar.

b[’]liooar, v. it would, &c. be enough.”

There are no Bible examples of the past tense of this construction.

LIOOAR

(1) As dreggyr Yeesey, as dooyrt eh, Slioar shoh hene
And Jesus answered and said, Suffer ye thus far.

(2) s’liooar eh, ta’n oor er jeet
it is enough, the hour is come

(3) ’Slioar dhyt; ny loayr rhym arragh jeh’n chooish shoh
Let it suffice thee; speak no more unto me of this matter.

(4) *Nagh slioar dooin peccah Pheor?
Is the iniquity of Peor too little for us? [One would expect rather Nagh lioar here.]

(5) Daue shoh hug y stroieder raad, myr v’eh ’syn ammys oc: son s’lioar ve daue agh blass jeh e yymmoose y gheddyn.
Unto these the destroyer gave place, and was afraid of them: for it was enough that they only tasted of the wrath.

20. MERG da

“smerg, in. wo, a denunciation of calamity.”

Probably the sense entails that MERG occurs in present independent only.

MERG

(1) S’merg dooinyn! son ta shin spooiillit
Woe unto us! for we are spoiled

(2) S’merg daue; son t’ad er n’immeeght ayns raad Cain,
Woe unto them! for they have gone in the way of Cain
MERG

(3) Smerg dooys! cre’n errée hig orryn
Woe is me! for I am undone [lit. ‘woe unto me! what outcome will come on me?]

(4) Smerg jeeish ta beishtag as neu-ghlen
Woe to her that is filthy and polluted

21. MIAN lesh

s’mian

“by-vian, v. would fain; Luke, xv. 16: As by-vian lesh e volg y lhieeney lesh ny bleaystyn va ny muckyn dy ee: as cha row dooinney erbee hug cooney da. And he would fain have filled his belly with the husks that the swine did eat: and no man gave unto him.”

S’mian lesh lit. = ‘it is desire with him’. There are no further Bible examples.

22. MIE lesh

SHARE lesh, da

“cha čhare-lhiam, I would not rather. S. [Something odd here. We expect cha bare lhiam.]

bare lhien, we would rather.

bare lhienyn, we would rather, em.”
Cregeen does not mention explicitly the s’mie lesh construction, but only the comparative version share lesh ‘prefers’ and share da ‘is better for’. There are a number of different constructions for the sentential subjects of MIE/SHARE, as commented on below.

23. MOOAR lesh

“cha mooar lesh, v. he careth not on account of size; -yn, id. em.
cha mooar lh’ee, adv. she careth not, &c.; -ish, id. em.
cha mooar lhiam, adv. I care not, &c.; -s, id. em.
cha by-voor, adv. careth not, careth not because of its bigness, size, or greatness; *Isa. xxxiii. 8: ...t’eh er vrishey yn conaant, t’eh er hoiaghey beg jeh ny ardvalyn, cha by-voor lesh dooinney erbee. ...he hath broken the covenant, he hath despised the cities, he regardeth no man.”

One might infer from Cregeen that mooar lesh is only used in the negative, but this is not the case. Essentially s’mooar lhiam is ‘I care about’, ‘is important to me’, and thus cha mooar lhiam ‘I do not care about’, ‘is not important to me’. When what is cared or not cared about is nominal, one suspects that the more genuine construction is as in (1) with the nominal yn olk as the grammatical subject. The examples (2) and (3) with son look to be influenced by the English idiom ‘care for’ that they translate. In (4) the grammatical subject is a non-finite VP with dy + verbal noun, etc.

24. narra noain dhyt, adv. may it not otherwise be known to thee, or may it inevitably, of necessity, or fate come on or to thee. [= Nara noain dhyt, Nara’n yioin dhyt, Nar row noauyn dhyt.]

In this construction, narra is for nar row ‘let it not be’. Cregeen’s glosses and the spelling with ’n yioin suggest that he connected this idiom with yioin ‘knowledge’, ‘purpose’ (see here under IONE). Can this be right?

my t’ad marroo, inmee uss royd geiyrt orroo, narra noain dooin dy bragh ’akin jeed edyr mac ny inneen. if they be dead, go thy ways after them, let us never see of thee either son or daughter.
25. STROOYS

“stroos or strooys, it appears so, (perhaps from streeu, strife); there has been a strife in me how it is, and it is so settled by me that it will or shall be as I say; the emphatic of strooheene.

strooheene, p. it appears to me or myself, I am persuaded in myself, I imagine or suppose, methinks.”

This idiom has only first person singular present tense forms. It may not contain copula s’.

As nish, vraaraghyyn, strooys dy nee trooid mee-hushtey ren shiu eh, myr ren myrgeddin ny firreill eu.

26. TAITTIN lesh

s’taittin

“by-haittyn, adv. because of pleasure or delight, to pleasure or delight in.

my haittyyn, v. if I will have pleasure &c. in; -s, id. em. T my haittyn, v. if I would have pleasure or delight. T cha daittyn lhiam, v. I had not pleasure or delight. T”

It seems that Cregeen took the -in in my haittyn as the 1SG conditional suffix, hence his gloss ‘if I would have pleasure’, but in the examples my is generally not the conditional particle, and haittyn is just an alternative spelling for haityn. His “my haittym” (future) seems constructed on this presupposition, but it is not attested in the Bible. He does not mention the present tense form s’taittin (or s ’taittyn), which is attested, though curiously several of the cases of by haittin/ by haittyyn clearly have present meaning despite their form ((13), (15), (17)). Note present dependent form daittin; and several cases of my-haittin = s ’taittin, daittin, or by-haittin. The grammatical subject of TAITTIN is nearly always a noun phrase, but in (16)-(17) we have a non-finite VP with a gerund and in (18) a finite clause.

27. TREIH lesh, da

Cregeen makes no mention of this construction, beyond the simple “s’treih, a. how miserable, wretched, forlorn, pitiful, dismal, pale; comp. and sup. T.” S’treih lhiam ‘I am sorry’, s’treih dou ‘woe unto me’.

s’treih lhieu dy akin ee ’sy joan it pitieth them to see her in the dust

S’treih dasyn ta streeu rish e Er-croo! Woe unto him that striveth with his Maker!

28. TRIMSHEY lesh

s’trimshay

“by-hrimshey, adv. for or because of sorrow or sadness.”

As above, Cregeen is misled by thinking by = ‘because of’ here, rather than the past tense of the copula she / s’.
As by-hrimshey lesh y ree: And the king was sorry:

cia nhynney, v. like not, do not like. S byyney, s. did prefer, or hold in estimation, had fondness for, did like; the past time

The grammatical subject of this construction is nearly always a noun phrase; an exception in example (17) where it is a non-finite VP with dy + verbal noun.
